

STINGRAY DAILY STORY

SNOW DAY

ICE PAINTING

Ice cube painting. Sitting around the table the children selected one of the ice cubes using the sticks and started painting across their page. The children enjoyed painting with the ice, as it created a different texture across their paper. Taking turns they selected the different paints and swapped the colours with their friends.

SENSORY GLOVES

As the children continued to explore the Snow day activities they discovered the sensory gloves. Selecting one of the gloves they investigated the different items located amongst the ice. When the children put their hands in the water they noticed it was very cold. To melt the ice the children moved the gloves around in the water, watching the water swirl around. Once they ice was melted the children were able to squeeze the gloves and watch the sensory objects move around.

FROZEN DINOSAUR EGGS

Hanson, Spencer, Xin Yan and Olivia spent some time working with the frozen dinosaur eggs. Selecting one of the small hammers they used their fine motor skills to smack the eggs. This activity encouraged the children to use their hand-eye coordination as they had to focus on where they were hitting the ice.

PLAYDOUGH

One of the other snow day activities the children had was playing with white playdough. Using the small rolling pins the children made the playdough flat before pushing the cookie cutters into the playdough. While working with the playdough they strengthened their fine motor skills and expressed their creative thinking.

SNOW MAN BUILDING

Spencer and Olivia joined Miss Jade at the snowman building table. Olivia used some of the different decorations to create the design of her snow man. While working with the snow, the children observed the texture of the snow and how it felt in their hands. Olivia also used one of the small rolling pins to flatten the snow.
