With Miss Megha and Miss Matisse

Exploring sensory books!

As book week has started from today, we offered our children with variety of books to explore. Books helps in building the listening, memory, and vocabulary skills in children and also allow them to enhance tehri knowledge about world around them by only looking and touching he pictures in books.

We introduced " Rainbow fish" book among the other books as well as it got different textures on it and it is our "Theme" for the book-week as well. Children loved to touch the sparkly texture on every fish . Arden loved the flip-flap book as she enjoyed flapping the cover by using her fingers and Felix found his comfort in sitting my lap and exploring the book.

Fish in the water!

What a fun sensory filled day we have had in the starfish room today where children enjoyed playing with the water. As we are focusing on "Rainbow fish" book this week, to extend on this learning, I planned an outdoor play experience where I put some warm water in a tub, added blue food-colouring to make it look like a sea and then added some fish and others sea animals in it.

Children were very excited to see this and quickly gathered around the tub. I started taking out the fish out of the water one by one and asked children to do it. Children used their hands to splash the water in the tub and loved to take the sea animals form the tub one by one.

Rainbow fish craft!

For our art today Miss Megha decided that the babies should make a rainbow fish of their own for the introduction of our book week theme using cupcake liners. Miss Megha placed glue on the paper so the babies could then decorate it with the colourful cupcake liners. Harlow and Norah got straight in and started placing the liners on the paper hitting them to make sure that they stick on properly. Felix placed them down so gently making sure that they were perfect placed on the paper. Arden was so excited to make her art today taking the cupcake liners and placing them neatly on her fish before looking to Miss Megha to give her some more. Alina was mostly interested in playing with the fish on the paper but then began to place the liners on the fish. What beautiful artwork the starfish made today,

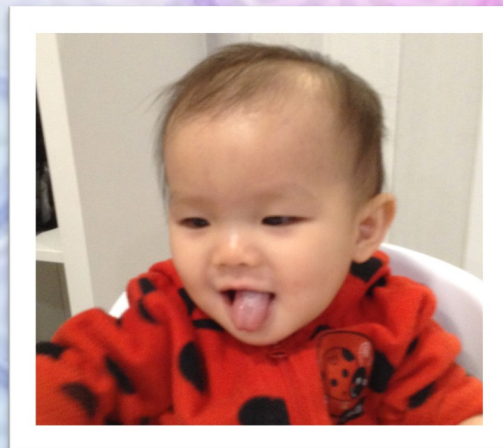

Well done!

Analysis of learning

In today's indoor and outdoor experiences, children's investigated their interest areas and enthusiastically participated in the experiences planned for them. Children were able to focus on their cognitive, social, fine and gross motor skills.

Reflection of the day

It was a busy day today but yet we had a fun day where children loved exploring their indoor and outdoor environment. Playing with sea animals and water was the best part of the day. Shape-sorting box was the another loved activity by the children.
