Yoga with Miss Gini

We started this morning's session off with stretching our whole bodies. Arms, legs, toes, tummies, you name it! Our focus today in yoga was to practice our breathing!

We used the collapsible ball to demonstrate what our stomachs look like when we breathe and then Miss Gini gave everyone a duck to place on their bellies and watch it go up and down as they breathe.

 He shoots, he scores!!!

Seeing as though the weather outside was not play weather, we decided we could still play inside.

Miss Caitlin set up the basketball hoop over the door at just the right height for us all to shoot the ball in the hoop.

Nate was super excited when he saw Miss Caitlin pumping up the ball, he watched and waited until it was ready. We were able to slam dunk, do a 3-pointer and we even tried bouncing the ball with our hands. It was so much fun!

All things Blue

The children jumped for joy as they saw Miss Caitlin walk back into the room as they knew they would be able to play with the playdough any minute. Miss Caitlin put the playdough on the table with a blue bus, boat, bat and bike stencil as well as some wooden rolling pins. As the playdough still looked white the children were eager to get in and play with it as Miss Caitlin showed them that there were hidden blue buttons mixed in and how it turned blue. The children really enjoyed this activity and after a little while the children decided they wanted to add sprinkles as well so Miss Talitha let each child have a turn of sprinkling glitter on their playdough until all the playdough was super sparkly.

As Kai-Li played with her playdough she used the bike stencil and as she pushed the stencil into the playdough she said "B is for bike". As Meghan played with the playdough she used the bus stencil and said "blue bus".

Bubble Wrap Bananas

B is for .... Banana's.

To continue with our 'B' artwork for the week, we made bananas with BUBBLEWRAP!

Double B!

We pressed the bubble wrap in yellow paint then transferred it to our banana template. As we pressed down on the bubble wrap we spoke about how bananas and bubble wrap are 'B' words.

When it was Kai-Li's turn, she reminded Miss Caitlin that we had bananas for morning tea. Good memory Kai-Li!
